SUMMARY STATEMENT: The Lenel Access Control System at the DSJ is currently running on outdated hardware and software, which introduces real risks to both physical and cybersecurity. The system lacks support for modern encryption standards, and is no longer supported by the manufacturer, which increases the difficulty of maintaining the system.

Through the Sourcewell Cooperative contract pricing with Convergent Technologies, Borough IT plans to fully upgrade and replace legacy controllers, readers and enclosures, restructure cabling, and reprogram the system to meet current security and operational standards. This upgrade will improve reliability, reduce vulnerability, and position the DSJ for future integration and scalability, while aligning with security governance business objectives to reduce risk exposure, support compliance, and ensure continuity of operations across critical areas of the facility.

RECOMMENDATION OF ADMINISTRATION: Approve the subject action memorandum.
